Maleki launches new company for strategic consulting

Communication, public affairs, sustainability advice and conferences as well as corporate consulting for banks from a single source

Frankfurt am Main, 18 May 2018 – Dr. Nader Maleki, entrepreneur in the Frankfurt financial center, has launched a new strategic consulting company, the MALEKI CORPORATE GROUP. The company with partners in Berlin, Munich, Paris, London, New York, Beijing, Teheran and Dubai advises on corporate communications, public affairs, sustainability and ESG integration as well as on political and regulatory developments. The organization of top-class events and conferences and the communication of success-critical contacts complete the offer. Through its partners from business, the finance industry, but also from science and society MALEKI builds for decades on experience and a large network.

Its clients include corporations and financial service providers, medium-sized businesses and individuals, as well as associations and institutions from politics, business, science and the financial industry, such as the World Bank Group in Washington.

First projects are:

- The strategic advice of the World Bank Group on sustainability and green finance in Germany as well as the communicative support of the conference "Innovate4Climate".
- The conference "Initiative Private Pensions: Now or Never!" on 4th of June in Frankfurt with the Hessian Minister of Economics Tarek Al-Wazir and Professor Bert Rürup as keynote speaker.
- The international conference Future Europe, which will be held on 20th of June at the same time in Frankfurt, London, Paris and Amsterdam.

"We offer our customers from the financial world, industry and politics strategic communication from a single source", says Dr. Nader Maleki. "In addition, we have something that many others have to work on for a long time: a great network and decades of experience in organizing congresses. We can build for nearly every the communications platform he needs".

Dr. Nader Maleki has made a name for himself internationally in financial communications for more than three decades. Renowned events at the financial center Frankfurt go back to Dr. Nader Maleki, who is also the business ambassador of the city of Frankfurt.
